

What's Happening?

Prospective Jaycees Queen: Miss Barbados

 July 23, 2010  Observer News  The Big Stories  0 Comments

This Sagittarian, who describes herself as kind-hearted and generous, was born and raised in the parish of St Michael, Barbados.

Sakina Alleyne attended the Christ Church Foundation School, where she played netball and competed in athletics, while obtaining eight CXC passes. She subsequently earned an associate degree in accounting and Information Technology from Barbados Community College.

Currently, she is a student at the University of the West Indies Cave Hill Campus pursuing a bachelor's degree in accounting, after which she hopes to own an accounting firm and teach part-time.

This Barbados beauty queen who once considered herself a shy and reserved individual, strived to overcome her self-esteem issues and saw pageantry as an opportunity to become a role model and expand her horizons. She has since gained the title of Miss Teen Barbados Universal 2007.

Sakina's philosophy that has carried her through her 21 years thus far is, "Anything is possible through Christ who strengthens me." Through her successes and failures, God has been her guide, strength and courage in doing anything and she believes He will in the future.